TWO GERMAN PLANES DOWNED OVER FRANCE

Paris Reports Incident After Mass Nazi Flights Aimed at Paris.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Feb. 28—The downing of two German planes which took part in massed German flights over France during the past 48 hours was announced today by the French high command.

Two more in addition to two other German planes—Heinkel reconnaissance which the British announced yesterday they had shot down off their eastern coasts after German fliers had crossed Britain and the English channel.

The French did not reveal whether their pursuit planes or anti-aircraft batteries were responsible for the two enemy craft destroyed over France.

The French command's announcement said:

"In the course of particularly active operations in the last 48 hours two German planes were destroyed in France."

Considerable firing by French anti-aircraft batteries was directed at massed German squadrons which flew over Paris area Monday night. Six Parisians were wounded by one anti-aircraft shell.

The French said both sides had made deep incursions into enemy territory dropping propaganda leaflets. Clearing weather released great numbers of aviation units which had been grounded during the winter.

German planes were particularly active over eastern and northern France, pushing in as far as the Paris region, the French said.

Military dispatches said French artillery on the western front broke up three German patrols yesterday before they got within fighting distance of French outposts east of the Moselle and Saar rivers and in Alsace.

Germans Report Assault Repulsed

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Feb. 28—The German army command reported today a strong infantry assault supported by artillery was repulsed by German forces east of the Moselle river last night.

(French military advices reported artillery bombardment of German positions in the Blies valley, but did not mention troop attacks on German positions.)

The German communique said: "A strong enemy infantry assault supported by artillery in the region of Perl, east of the Moselle, last night was successfully resisted.

"The German air force on the night of Feb. 26 to 27 undertook extensive flights over France in the course of which numerous machines for a considerable time hovered over Paris.

"On Feb. 27, the air force making reconnaissance flights over the North Sea, the British isles and a limited region of France encountered vigorius enemy resistance."

CRAWFORD CO. MISHAP HURTS O.S.U. EMPLOYE

Secretary of Laboratory at Put-in-Bay Injured.

William I. McArtor, 22, secretary of the Ohio State university zoology laboratory at Put-In-Bay, suffered injuries including a brain concussion when the automobile he was driving skidded off the highway on Route 4 eight miles south of Bucyrus about 3 p. m. yesterday.

Attendants at Bucyrus City hospital described his condition as good this morning. His injuries include a deep laceration over the right eye and severe head lacerations in addition to the brain concussion, they said.

McArtor told State Patrolman T. E. Morgan of Marion who investigated he lost control of the car due to the icy and slushy condition of the highway. The car first skidded into a road marker breaking it off, and then skidded around in the road, went over into a ditch on the left side of the road, tore down approximately 25 feet of fence and struck a tree.

The car, a 1939 coupe, was badly damaged.

McArtor, who was alone, was en route from Columbus to his home at Put-In-Bay.

MARION RELIEF FUNDS STUDIED

Mayor Snare Confers on Finances with State Officials at Columbus.

Discussion of various ways in which relief funds might be raised featured conferences between Mayor Snare and state officials at Columbus yesterday.

One of the methods given attention was issuance of bonds in anticipation of collection of delinquent taxes, which could raise about $50,000 or $55,000 for Marion, the mayor said. He conferred with an official of the state tax commission who told him he did not think there would be any difficulty in obtaining approval for such an issue.

Hope To Avoid Bonds

However, the mayor and other city officials are planning to steer clear of delinquent tax bonds unless they must be issued as a last resort. The mayor pointed out today that the "cream" of the delinquent taxes has already been used up by previous delinquent tax bond issues. Thus, if the city should issue more bonds it is possible that the city would have to dip into its general fund to pay off some of the bonds, should the delinquent tax payments peter out.

Another disadvantage, the mayor said, is that issuing bonds would amount to robbing Peter to pay Paul, since the delinquent tax proceeds ordinarily would accrue to the city's operating funds.

As for the possibility of another tax levy for relief or WPA being submitted at the May primaries, the mayor said that it appears to be up to the people. He said that in view of the defeat of two special relief and WPA levies at the polls recently, the city administration very likely will not ask for another vote in May unless there is a request from the people of Marion.

Other sources still open for relief funds are shifts of money from the gasoline and auto tag revenue, both inadequate, and levying of a special personal tax, such as an occupational tax.

Conferences Planned

However, the situation still remains uncertain. The mayor reported that the state welfare department is arranging conferences with representatives of several other cities and counties which are in straits similar to Marion's, and that something may develop from them to aid Marion.

Meanwhile, the city will hobble along paying something less than 40 per cent of its relief costs, the mayor said. This was made possible by financial legislation passed Monday night by council, assuring the city a share in state relief grants for the next few months.

First Signs Seen of Let-up in Steel Buying Decline

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—First signs that a two-to-three month decline in new steel buying and production might be halted were heralded by "Iron Age" in a weekly survey today.

While calling attention to the "noticeable" change for the better, the steel magazine said the improvement is neither broad enough nor large enough to be conclusive evidence of a general reversal in the recent downtrend.

At the same time, "Iron Age" added:

"Taken in conjunction with other factors, such as the upward trend in automobile manufacturing, an increasingly good export trade, the approach of spring, the stability of the steel price structure, and the fact that the 'Iron Age' steel scrap composite price is unchanged for the first time since mid-January, the betterment in order volume, slight though it is, may be of more significance than can at present be established.

"Current export sales and prospects for further expansion are attracting more attention within the industry than the domestic situation. With some companies, February totals will exceed those of any month since September, when the outbreak of war caused a rush of foreign buyers to this market.

"The rate of steel ingot production this week is estimated at 65 per cent, down two points from last week.

"Whether new business will increase in sufficient volume to forestall a further decline remains to be seen, but in any event steel companies believe there is a sufficient potential volume of requirements to sustain production at 60 per cent or better at least through March."

FINNS STRIKE AT RED TROOPS WITH PLANES

Troop Concentrations Bombed as Defenders Repel Further Soviet Advances.

By The Associated Press

HELSINKI, Feb. 28 — Finnish bombing planes continue to strike at Russian communications and troop concentrations while land forces have repelled continued Red army attempts to follow up its advantage on the Karelian isthmus, the Finnish army's daily communique said today.

The communique, however, gave but little indication of the extent of the isthmus fighting, which was believed to be raging undiminished in intensity.

The Finnish high command in only a brief reference to Russia's important drive on Viipuri on the Karelian isthmus today said the "enemy suffered heavily" in fighting in which the Finnish troops "fought defensive actions."

In the fighting, which occurred yesterday, several Russian tanks were destroyed, the Finns said, and "artillery activity was lively on both sides."

This was the least space given to the isthmus fighting in the daily communique for some time. Yesterday's statement disclosed that the Russians were threatening to encircle Viipuri with a big drive across the island-dotted and ice-crusted bay of Viipuri.

Of the war in the air the high command said that "enemy air activity in the war zone was concentrated on the Karelian isthmus and the area northeast of Lake Ladoga."

The Finns said that they repulsed Russian attempts to advance northeast of Lake Ladoga and that "operations against surrounded enemy positions continued" at Kuhmo, further north.

The Finns said their own air force "bombed enemy troop columns, munitions dumps, communications and certain military objectives on the gulf of Finland and its coasts."

Of the Arctic front, where the Finns yesterday disclosed a withdrawal southward to Nautsi, on the Norwegian border about 75 miles below the coast, today's communique said only that "a few enemy aircraft were observed," and "bombs dropped by the enemy caused no appreciable damage."

Finnish sources announced 521 Russian planes have been shot down since the start of the war.

These sources estimated the total value of these planes at 2,500,000,000 Finnish markka ($42,500,000), or five times the

PRESIDENT ON RETURN TRIP

Cruiser Heads for Home; Roosevelt Wants Stronger Canal Defense.

By The Associated Press

ABOARD U. S. S. LANG AT SEA, Feb. 28—(VIA WIRELESS) President Roosevelt headed for home today aboard the Cruiser Tuscaloosa after telling newsmen the Panama Canal defense must be doubled.

He said that doubling the present number of planes and guns defending the canal is necessary for long-range defense of the vital link between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The President's press conference aboard the cruiser followed his thorough inspection of canal defenses. He said such a long-range program contemplates defense operations extending, if necessary, throughout Central America and as far south as Ecuador, Columbia and Venezuela.

Turning to other current topics, he said he had nothing to add to usual state department messages when asked to comment on Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles' European visit. Welles, he said, delivered some personal and unofficial notes for him.

The third-term subject popped up when a reporter asked whether he had any statement about March 4, the seventh anniversary of his first inauguration. The President smiled and replied in the negative. He is scheduled to be back in Washington on that date for a dinner tendered him by his cabinet, but he said nothing would be disclosed prior to Thursday about the cruise to the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt said more guns and planes are needed at the Panama canal to permit better opportunity to discover any attacking force—from the air, or by sea—at much longer distance from the canal than ever had been provided heretofore.

He said the first thing to do is to finish the present program for anti-aircraft guns and planes.

The President and Panama's president, Augusto Boyd, discussed canal defenses at a conference aboard the Tuscaloosa.

Republicans Jubilant Over Election Victories in Two Ohio Congressional Districts

McGregor Carries Delaware Co. by Margin of 1,084

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, Feb. 28 — Delaware county, running true to its tradition as a Republican stronghold, gave J. Harry McGregor of Coshocton (R) a majority of 1,084 votes over Byron B. Ashbrook of Johnstown, his Democratic foe for the Seventeenth district seat in congress in yesterday's special election.

The total vote was McGregor 4,148 and Ashbrook 3,064, making a grand total of 7,212, about half the vote in a warm presidential election. Yesterday's total was more than double the special primary total of 3,212.

Although the county voted Republican far and wide, with only a few of the 45 precincts going to Ashbrook, some observers here described Ashbrook's race as "strong."

One of the unusual features of the voting in the county came in Scioto township where the citizens might as well have stayed at home for all the good they did. In both precincts of the township the totals for the two candidates were identical, each vote being cancelled out.

The tabulation of votes in districts in the northern part of Delaware county, near Marion county, showed the following:

Radnor township north — McGregor 85, Ashbrook 20.

Radnor township south — McGregor 100, Ashbrook 22.

Marlboro township (including Norton)—McGregor 30, Ashbrook 29.

Ashley village—McGregor 208, Ashbrook 92.

Oxford township (surrounding Ashley)—McGregor 75, Ashbrook 48.

Troy township — McGregor 86, Ashbrook 79.

Thompson township—McGregor 18, Ashbrook 27.

Delaware city (15 precincts) — McGregor 1,748, Ashbrook 1,200.

Delaware township (surrounding Delaware city) — McGregor 123, Ashbrook 72.

600 on Hand For Opening of Star's Cooking School

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Yesterday's snow and slush failed to dampen the enthusiasm of some 600 housewives of Marion and vicinity who braved the inclement weather to attend the initial session of The Marion Star's fifteenth annual cooking school which opened at 1:30 p. m. in The Star auditorium.

Despite the fact that this year's school is scheduled one-half hour earlier than previous ones, there were only a few tardy pupils, proving that the hundreds of Marion housewives are interested in learning what's new in that old and honored profession, that of providing the family with a variety of good, wholesome and tempting food.

Mrs. V. Elsner Smith, home economist and homemaking expert, who was brought to Marion for the second year by popular request, was given generous applause of welcome when she was presented to her 1940 class.

The school will continue through Friday beginning each day at 1:30 p. m. Doors will be open at 12:30 p. m. in order to provide ample time for the school patrons to view the many interesting exhibits and displays which occupy a generous part of the large auditorium.

Attractive Kitchen

The kitchen, where Mrs. Smith puts her tempting and practical recipes through their paces, is a most attractive affair with its built-in fixtures and colorful trim.

Her cordial greeting renewed old friendships and made each new attendant a friend. Trim and well-groomed in her neat costume, Mrs. Smith set the keynote for her orderly kitchen where there was a place for everything.

This nationally-known authority echoes the Hungarian adage that "nothing good comes from a cluttered kitchen." She expands that thought to include systematic planning of marketing, menus and working program, even to the assembling of measuring spoons, cups, bowls and shining utensils before she begins actual blending, sifting and mixing.

Adding interest to the setting are the clever dresses worn by the usherettes as they distribtue the programs and collect the questions for the question box. Completing their costumes are the new spring hose in colors to blend with the scores of new spring shades to be found in the dress sections of stores acting a co-sponsors of the school.

Yesterday's program included a meat casserole with deviled pin wheel top which could be varied through the use of meats and fish,

Pittsburgh Man Wills Estate to Intended Bride

Wedding to Cardington Woman Was Set for Near Future.

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON, Feb. 28 — Miss Beatrice Ward, who yesterday was revealed as the sole legatee of her fiance, M. Stuart Dravo, of Pittsburgh, was to have become his bride in a few weeks, the family said today at the home here.

Miss Ward, who until about two years ago was engaged in private nursing in Pittsburgh, where she met her fiance, returned to her home in Cardington Friday. She was called to Pittsburgh early last week by the illness of Mr. Dravo, who died Feb. 20 of a heart ailment. Funeral services were held Thursday.

The will of Mr. Dravo, 55-year-old member of a prominent Pittsburgh family, left the entire estate, valued at $40,000, to Miss Ward.

In his will, written by hand and probated Tuesday, he wrote:

"I bequeath my entire estate to Miss Beatrice Ward of Cardington, O., to whom I am engaged to marry."

He then cited that the estate included property at Forbes street and McKee place, which has been rented to an oil company; stocks, bonds and money in two Oakland banks, Pittsburgh news reports stated.

Mr. Dravo was a district sales manager for the Crucible Steel Co., and had been with the company 20 years.

His father was a prominent Pittsburgh financier and his mother was a member of the McKee family, also well known there.

Worked As Nurse

Miss Ward served as a nurse in the last illnesses of both parents of Mr. Dravo.

Although her family came to Cardington in 1925 from the east, Miss Ward did not move here until August of 1938 following the death of her mother. The family said she had been advised by Mr. Dravo to return to Cardington after the mother's death.

Now making their home here are Miss Beatrice, Miss Mildred and Mrs. Marguerite Boxer, all sisters, and Mrs. Boxer's daughter. The Ward home is just outside the corporation limits on Route 42, on the road to Delaware.

KERMIT ROOSEVELT MAY GO TO FINNS' AID

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 28—About 500 British volunteers, members of an international brigade organized to help Finland against Russia, were disclosed today to be already on their way to the northern war front.

This first contingent comprises about a quarter of the international force enlisted in Britain to give unofficial military aid to the Finns, supplementing undisclosed quantities of war materials which the British government has sent Finland.

It was reported that Kermit Roosevelt, son of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, was considered for the post of commander of the brigade by Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, Finland's defense chief.

Roosevelt was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the British army soon after war started.

NEW DEAL AN ISSUE

State and National Leaders See Indication of November Trend.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28—Jubilant Republicans today cheered decisive victories in two Ohio congressional elections as portending a New Deal rout in November contests and a crushing blow to any third term aspirations of President Roosevelt.

Republicans selected Contractor-Politician J. Harry McGregor in a district represented for the last nine years by a Democrat; they named wealthy Frances Payne Bolton Ohio's first congresswoman to succeed her late husband from a traditionally Republican area.

Tuesday's results for 10-month terms, said Gov. Bricker, show politically-strategic Ohio is firmly entrenched in the Republican column." November's results "will tell a different story," immediately replied state Democratic Chairman Arthur L. Limbach.

Blow to New Deal

McGregor's election will "stimulate" party morale and be "a severe blow to New Dealers and the third term ambitions of the President," Republican Chairman Ed D. Schorr said.

"The result emphatically showed a trend away from the New Deal," asserted 42-year-old McGregor of West Lafayette. He upset a decade's Democratic dominance in the 17th district, predominantly rural but with a sprinkling of medium-sized industrial cities.

He defeated, 27,437 to 22,805, Byron B. Ashbrook, Johnstown banker and nephew of the late Rep. William A. Ashbrook, who represented the district 23 of the last 33 years. The New Deal was a clear-cut issue in their campaign.

In the 22nd, embracing part of Cleveland, socially-prominent Mrs. Bolton, mother of three grown sons, polled 40,882 votes to 24,348 for Anthony A. Fleger, Parma attorney.

Fleger, riding the Roosevelt landslide of 1936, was the only Democrat ever to represent the district since it was formed in 1914. He lost his seat in 1938 to Chester C. Bolton, who died Oct. 29, two months before Representative Ashbrook.

7th Woman In Congress

Mrs. Bolton will be the seventh woman member of congress. The election of her and McGregor gave Ohio 18 house Republicans and eight Democrats and increased to 188 total Republican representation in the 435-member house. There are seven vacancies.

"They (Mrs. Bolton and McGregor) will join forces in congress with a militant Republican minority which, after next Jan. 1, will become an effective majority," commented Chairman Schorr.

Rep. Dudley White, Norwalk Republican and candidate for the U. S. senatorial nomination, said the 17th district outcome "expresses disapproval of the third term idea and the New Deal policies" and "it is a sample of the way in which Ohio will lead the

By Peggy O'More

YESTERDAY: Attractive Tomi Toland is the rebel of the respectable Toland family. Her Uncle Timothy, who was also a rebel, has died and Allen Bartell, a young lawyer, is about to read the will.

* * *

CHAPTER TWO
A Million Frogs

ALLEN BARTELL gave one look at Tomi's flamingo dress, then focused his attention on the long legal document in his hand. Tomi wondered if he usually breathed as heavily. It couldn't be the man was laughing at her again. It seemed to her that he was having difficulty with his facial muscles. They seemed inclined to twitch. He started reading and Tomi found she was having a similar difficulty with her own facial muscles.

The will was a masterpiece of satire. Each bequest from the dozen pairs of silk stockings to Great-aunt Hannah to the turnip watch, which didn't run, to Major Toland, was pointed. These bequests were something more. Each had a stated value. They established Timothy's remembrance of each and acted as a curtailment of a will contest.

Looking at the dismayed faces about her, Tomi reflected that this was the first time she had not been made the butt of whatever joke was in the air. She regretted she had not made friends with Timothy. She hadn't known a Toland was capable of under-surface discernment.

"And to my great-niece, Tomi Toland—"

Tomi jerked upright in protest. She had done nothing to deserve inclusion in this ghoulish joke.

"—I do hereby bequeath the bulk of my estate, liquidated and established in the following, to wit:——"

Red lips parted, Tomi leaned forward and listened. "Farm, all buildings and implements, ten-room house and furnishings as listed, herds—last count one million head—"

Herds! Tomi nearly bounced on the prim sofa where she sat hedged in between the Major and Aunt Augusta.

Herds! For one heavenly moment she visualized herself in a ten-gallon hat, riding the plains. Oh, blessed Uncle Timothy. She'd better pinch herself. In a moment Molly, the cook, would be shaking her and telling her she'd be late at the office.

No, that shaking was the Major, getting up breath for a pronouncement. In a moment he'd burst forth. There it came.

"Farm?" he bellowed. "No farm was ever mentioned to me. What does it grow?"

Allen Bartel looked up, his eyes meeting Tomi's. "Frogs," he answered.

"F - frogs?" questioned Tomi, faintly.

"Frogs," confirmed Bartel, and Tomi had a ludicrous vision of little green frogs growing in long green rows, and herself standing over them with a watering can.

"But the herds," prompted Austin Toland, the legal light of the family. "You specifically mentioned herds."

"Frogs," elucidated Bartel.

Tomi closed her eyes. This was a colossal joke. Imagine inheriting a million frogs! What would anyone want of even one frog?

"What is the value of this property?" demanded Great-aunt Hannah.

"The value of the physical property, land, house, buildings and implements, is, roughly, fifteen thousand dollars. The value of the commercial frog farm must naturally vary from month to month."

"And why must it vary?" challenged Hannah.

Bartell's eyes twinkled, although his voice expressed nothing but serious consideration of her question.

'Not Interested in Legs'

"The value must depend upon the marketable legs, frogs' legs, Miss Toland. In the winter months these would drop to zero. In the spring your herds would present you with about five million eggs, but the mortality rate on eggs is heavy. Allowing one-fifth of these to reach the tadpole stage, you have again the mortality rate on tadpoles. How many of these will sprout legs before some natural enemy dines on them, sans legs, is questionable. After that, the market value of those left is a potential value. It takes three years for a frog to grow an edible leg."

Great-aunt Hannah's face was stiff with dignity. "Young man, I am not interested in legs, frogs or any other kind. Give me the approximate value of the entire estate."

Tomi's eyes were bright with interest. Was she such a child of the pavements that she had thought frogs' legs descended onto platters out of thin air? This inheritance was beginning to look like something, after all.

Bartell seemed reluctant to comply; then with a strange glance at Tomi, he said, "According to the inheritance tax, the estate is valued at thirty thousand dollars."

"Sell it immediately!" ordered the matriarch.

Tomi smiled. That was an excellent idea. Sell it. She could use thirty thousand dollars, and goodness only knew she couldn't use thirty thousand frogs, French fried or on the hoof. She'd keep fifteen thousand for herself and divide the rest of it amongst the family.

"I'm sorry," Bartell was saying, and he didn't look sorry. "There is a stipulation that Miss Toland must take immediate possession of the farm and maintain it at its present financial status for five years before it becomes hers to dispose of as she desires."

There was a moment of tense silence, then May Toland-Carrington purred across to Tomi. "Never you mind, dearie. We'll help you run the place. I'll take charge of the house and Carrington will run the farm."

Other voices evinced a similar intent, nearly drowning Bartell's protest. It seemed he was again sorry.

"But under the terms of the will, Miss Toland can accept neither personal nor financial aid from any relative. Nor can she, during this probationary period, entertain any relative on the property more than once a year and for more than twenty-four hours at that time."

Tomi, listening, flamed with indignation. Not that she hadn't been planning to get away from the family; not that she didn't long to have something of her own without their directing its use, but she most assuredly was not giving up bondage to the Tolands in the flesh to go into bondage to a Toland in the spirit.

"Of course," she remarked, "I don't have to accept."

"No," agreed Bartell, soothingly. "Mr. Toland didn't expect you to. He said you had neither the vision to see the possibilities in the farm nor the stamina to face the work.

"Oh, he did, did he?" flared Tomi. This sounded more like Timothy, the old fossil. And why, if he felt like this, had he troubled to will the property to her? There was a catch in it some place.

"And if I haven't these two priceless qualities, what becomes of the estate?" she asked.

Bartell's gray eyes met hers, their expression hidden quickly by short, thick lashes. "Failure on your part to live up to any stipulation, in any way, will cause the estate to revert to me, to be disposed of in any manner I choose."

Right there was a catch. It settled the whole matter as far as Tomi was concerned. Sooner than see this person in possession of her frogs, she'd go out and live with the things.

"When do I assume control?" she asked.

Bartell seemed to relax. "Immediately," he replied. "I'd like to leave for the coast tomorrow; however, if that isn't convenient—"

"It isn't!" Hannah Toland answered for Tomi. "And the only place that young lady will go will be to her room . . . and immediately. As for you, young man, I'll handle you. I'll contest this will. Timothy was out of his mind. I'll prove he was a victim of senile dementia: that you preyed upon his good will until he allowed you to draw this document to fit your schemes. Tomi, will you go to your room?"

Tomi arose. "But Aunt Hannah," she protested, 'isn't this my inheritance?"

"Definitely not!" came the reply. "And if you persist in interrupting and assuming, I shall have to ask you to make an immediate choice between the family and the . . . the . . ."

"Frogs?" suggested Bartell.

Tomi debated only a moment. The Tolands didn't need the money. For her to give up this breathtaking challenge, perpetrated by Uncle Timothy's ghoulish joke, was unthinkable. She couldn't. She'd accept her loss graciously, if she failed. Meanwhile, she would have the fun of trying to win.

"Aunt Hannah — " her voice begged for understanding — "If you don't mind, I think I'll have a go at the frogs."

3½ pounds (14 cups sifted) flour.
2 tablespoons salt.
2 pounds (4 2-3 cups) shortening.

Sift flour and salt together into a large bowl. Add 1 pound shortening to flour and cut in until mixture is as fine as meal. Add remaining 1 pound shortening and continue cutting until particles are size of a navy bean. Put pastry mix in a covered container and store on the pantry shelf or in the cupboard for use as needed. Do not keep pastry mix in the refrigerator—it will keep sweet and fresh at room temperature. Use pastry mix as needed in all kinds of pastry such as pies, tarts, patty shells, meat pies, etc. This amount of pastry mix will make 11 one-crust pies, 5 two-crust pies and 1 one-crust pie, or 6½ dozen 3 inch tarts or patties.

LAUNDERING FINE FABRICS

1. Make rich, lukewarm Lux suds. Lux is ideal for washing silks, rayons and woolens because it dissolves so quickly in lukewarm water leaving no tendency to use hot water that may injure delicate colors and fabrics.

2. Before washing, test new colored materials by squeezing a sample or inconspicuous portion of the garment in clear lukewarm water for five minutes or so. If the color is safe in water, it is safe in Lux.

3. Take measurements of knitted or crocheted garments, also crepes and novelty weaves, to use as a guide in restoring garments to the correct size after washing.

4. Wash the garment by squeezing it thoroughly but gently in the rich Lux suds. Never soak or rub fine fabrics.

5. Rinse thoroughly in clear lukewarm water. Three rinses are usually adequate.

6. Squeeze out as much moisture as possible without twisting or wringing the garment.

7. Roll the garment in a dry Turkish towel to remove the excess moisture.

8. Be sure to unroll immediately. Ease to shape and hang to dry in the shade in a good current of air.

9. Knitted or crocheted woolens should be spread out on a flat surface to dry. They should be eased to the correct size and shape.

10. Iron all fine fabrics on the wrong side with a warm—never hot—iron. Most materials should be ironed when slightly damp. Rough weaves should be ironed dry. Woolens should be pressed by placing a damp cloth over the material and using a warm iron over the cloth.

VEGETABLE COVER BATTER

Sift 1 cup flour with ¼ teaspoon salt; mix one slightly beaten egg, 1 cup milk and 1 tablespoon melted shortening; add gradually to flour, beating with a rotary beater until smooth. Use for vegetable and meats or fruit fritters. Makes 1¼ cups.

CAULIFLOWER FRITTERS

Wash cauliflower and separate in flowerets. Cook 10 minutes in boiling, salt water; drain well. Dip in "Cover Batter" and fry in 1 inch of shortening hot enough to brown a bread cube in 40 to 50 seconds or at 380 degrees F. Drain on absorbent paper.

ARABIAN KNIGHT DESSERT CAKE

½ cup shortening.
½ teaspoon salt.
¾ teaspoon ginger.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
½ teaspoon cloves.
½ teaspoon allspice.
½ teaspoon soda.
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed.
2 egg yolks, beaten.
2 cups sifted flour.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
1 cup sour milk.

Meringue

2 egg whites, unbeaten.
1½ cups sugar.
2 tablespoons water.
½ cup nuts chopped.

Method: Combine shortening, salt, spices and soda. Add brown sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Beat egg yolks until light and thick and add to creamed mixture, beating thoroughly. Add liquid and dry ingredients and bake in a 10 x 10 inch pan that has been well greased.

Prepare the meringue by combining the egg whites, sugar and water on top of double boiler and mix thoroughly. Place over rapidly boiling water and beat constantly with rotary beater until mixture holds up in peaks. Remove from fire, cool, add nuts and spread on batter. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees F. 50 to 60 minutes. Serves 10.

FROZEN BANANA SALAD

1 tablespoon lemon juice.
1 teaspoon salt.
4 tablespoons mayonnaise.
2 packages cream cheese.
4 tablespoons crushed pineapple.
½ cup maraschino cherries, quartered.
½ cup English walnuts, if desired.
1 cup heavy cream.
3 well-ripened bananas, cubed.

Add lemon juice, and salt to mayonnaise and stir into cheese. Mix with pineapple, cherries, nuts and fold in whipped cream. Add bananas. Turn into tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze three hours or longer. Cut in pieces and serve on bed of lettuce with additional mayonnaise diluted with cherry juice.

MOLASSES OR NEW ENGLAND ALL-BRAN MUFFINS

2 cups All-Bran.
½ cup molasses.
1½ cups milk.
1 egg.
1 cup flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon soda.

Add All-Bran to molasses and milk and allow to soak for 15 minutes. Beat egg and add to first mixture. Sift flour, salt and soda together and combine with All-Bran mixture. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven 400 degrees F. about 20 minutes. Yield: 1 dozen muffins (2½ inches in diameter).

Your Income Tax

DEPRECIATION ALLOWANCES

The amount to be recovered by depreciation is the cost of the property, if acquired by purchase after February 28, 1913. If acquired by purchase prior to March 1, 1913, the basis is the cost of the property, less depreciation sustained prior to March 1, 1913, or the fair market value on March 1, 1913, whichever is greater.

The proper allowance for depreciation is that amount which should be set aside for the taxable year in accordance with a reasonable consistent plan (not necessarily a uniform rate) whereby the aggregate amount so set aside, plus the salvage value, will at the end of the of the useful life of the property equal the cost or other basis of the property.

The depreciation rate of a building is not based upon the number of years it will stand before being condemned and razed but on the number of years it will remain habitable or serviceable, for the purpose for which constructed.

If it is clearly shown that, because of economic or other conditions, property must be abandoned at a date prior to the end of its normal useful life, so that depreciation deductions above are insufficient to return the cost or other basis, a reasonable deduction for obsolescence may be allowed in addition to depreciation. No deduction for obsolescence is permitted because, in the opinion of the taxpayer, the property may become obsolete at some future date.

Just Talking

THE Sumner Welles expedition to Europe has captured popular imagination. To that extent, it already has been successful.

Stay-at-home Americans are privileged to wonder what Mr. Welles and the continental strong men talk about when they meet—or should they assume that Mr. Welles listens while the strong men do the talking?

They'd rather assume that than the opposite. It is evident to even the diplomatically untutored that talking is a hazardous occupation when vital decisions of life and death are being made.

Some Europeans hold, in fact, that the United States is in a poor position to do any talking at all, unless it intends to get into the war. Europeans, it seems, think Americans talk too much about matters they are unwilling to take responsibility for in a showdown.

It is stuff like this, however, that Mr. Welles is supposed to learn about on his tour. His countrymen cling to the notion that he is going to keep his ears and eyes open and his mouth shut. Otherwise, when it was announced he was going to make the grand tour there would have been a popular outcry that would have been a credit to the late Sen. Borah.

Repeat Performance?

OHIOANS sighed with relief when the Bigelow amendments were defeated last November. It had been a hard struggle. Something had been proved. Only spoilsports pointed out that it might have to be proved again and again.

Herbert S. Bigelow, sponsor of the amendments, has set up an organization to revive and refile the form of his pension petition. The Ohio Chamber of Commerce, which led the fight on the Bigelow proposals last year, warns that something-for-nothing pension schemes aren't washed up in this state simply because the Bigelow proposal was rejected once.

In the meantime, a petition proposing a "ham and eggs" scheme has been filed with the secretary of state. It calls for $30 every Wednesday for life to electors 57 years of age and over who are unemployed. And also in the meantime, Mr. Bigelow, still thumping for his own version of money magic, announces he will be a candidate, either for governor or congressman at large to further his idea.

Unless Ohio wants a repeat performance of last year's frantic effort to keep itself from becoming a victim of money madness it should start to do its straight thinking now. The pension racket won't be squelched until there cease to be victims of its fallacies.

How're We Doing?

WHEN national income reaches 80 billion dollars, according to orthodox New Dealism, there will be pie in the sky and everybody can have some. The pump can be primed even when no one wants water—and no one will when that happens. The budget can be balanced and carping critics who scream that Mr. Roosevelt started something he can't finish will be trussed up, gagged and laid away to desiccate among the retired bonds. It will be something like Christmas, only lots more fun and it will save the nation to boot.

Department of commerce, trying to relieve the suspense, now reports that national income reached 68 billion last year. That's 12 billion from the promised land, but 4½ billion better than 1938. It's also four billion less than national income for 1937, most reasonable facsimile of a boom year produced since the country was saved from the Republicans in 1932. In 1929, the year the budget started to get out of balance, national income was close to 83 billion which seems to do something to Mr. Roosevelt's argument, but no matter.

If everybody takes a deep breath and leans forward, national income will be forced up to 80 billion some day. At that point, some spoilsport will spring from behind a curtain waving a piece of paper. "Mistake!" he will yell. "It was supposed to be 100 billion. All figures subject to change without notice." But the goal's worth striving for anyway.

Yankee Knee Reflex

IF ONE thing about national character had to be picked as typical, the Yankee knee reflex couldn't be beaten.

It happens automatically whenever a bureaucratic snooper hits the right place. A foot flies up and catches him in the nearest point of contact. It's a sign the patient's condition is normal.

Census enumerators have been instructed to ask about individual incomes. No one thought much about it till the enumerators started asking. Wham! The reflex was in good working order.

Sen. Tobey of New Hampshire, where the Yankee reflex is close to being an exercise cult, has offered a bill to call off this kind of snooping. Perhaps it's too late to do that, since the census already has started.

But it's encouraging that the foot still flies up when snooping starts. If bureaucrats ever can start out on their busy-bee tasks in the United States without wondering who's going to plant a foot on them next and where, it will be time to quit celebrating Washington's birthday.

News Behind the News

Women's Groups Putting Up Scrap for Hull Trade Agreements Program.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—A remarkable inside job of propagandizing among women for the Hull trade agreements program has been noted by amazed congressmen in their mails. Western legislators here particularly have been receiving sheaves of organized letters from consumer groups, many of them very left wing, and from the League of Women Voters, and the American Association of University Women. These groups have interested a number of university professors, promoted forums along the line and radio talks that high tariffs hurt the consumers and cheaper foreign importations keep down prices.

Paul Mallon

A hot basement fire has thus been built up to sweat congress indirectly through organizations, whose decentralized activities out in the states have not become nationally noticeable. Mr. Hull and his official associates here have only gone through the normal motions of propaganda work so that from surface developments, you would hardly know a campaign of such proportions was in progress.

Asparagus

Scurviest trick of vengeful politicians is to plant dusty personal reflections upon their adversaries in the Washington personality columns. A sufferer lately has been now Supreme Court Justice Murphy, who must have left a thousand enemies behind him in the government, judging from the amount of aspersions cast at him by the gossip purveyors — such stuff as his delay in assuming the bench for a Florida vacation, that he had written friends in Michigan urging them to nominate him for some big public office because he was already tired of the bench, and so forth, and so forth.

Only on extraordinary occasions does a supreme court justice consent to receive newsmen, but a group was able to get in to see new Justice Murphy at their own request. No quotation was permitted, but you may be sure:

Mr. Murphy is not a candidate for anything except peace on the bench, and this includes the vice presidency. He went south because he suffers from asthma. He is happy on the court, glad to get back to the law, was a teacher of 10 years at the University of Detroit. He thinks enemies he made in the justice department are trying to discredit him.

Stimulant

Fresh buying here by the Allies will be announced soon. The French who have been out of our dark leaf tobacco market, from which they usually take 20,000,000 pounds annually, have sent inside notice to government officials that they are resuming purchases. Lord Lothian, the British ambassador, has been in almost daily conference at the state department, emerging with batches of pencilled notes concerning purchasing arrangements and ideas for liquidation of British-held American securities.

Scheming

Confidential code advices from cruising President Roosevelt have indicated to his staff here that he may stop off at the Netherlands islands of Curacao and Aruba on the way back from the Canal Zone.

Officialdom here does not know why, but it is a matter of inside knowledge that when Hitler massed German troops against the Netherlands border, some weeks ago, Mr. Roosevelt massed a few cruisers in the Caribbean nearest the vital spots in the Dutch West Indies. It may now be told that this government would not have permitted these strategic points near the Panama Canal to fall into dictatorial hands. An arrangement was probably made privately with the Netherlands government although this can not be related definitely on good authority.

Precaution

Mr. Roosevelt's excursion among the Pacific islands off the canal inadvertently brought to light a wholly new inside phase of his neutrality zone program.

The 300-mile limit was fixed in order to bring in all the defensive islands which might be used as a basis of air attack in this hemisphere.

This precaution will be followed with a mutual agreement whereby any zone government may use the ports of any other nation for their battleships without the usual restrictions. This way, the United States will have the right to use all these islands owned by the Panama and other governments, and in emergency we will be able to establish anti-aircraft defenses upon them.

The old idea of buying the islands — rumors of which have arisen out of the Roosevelt trip—do not seem to be justified.

Distress

A number of Democratic senators are appealing privately to Senator Rush Holt of West Virginia to hold off on his anti-third-term resolution. The appealing group is composed almost entirely of senators who are up for re-election this year. They are against third terms but do not want to vote on the resolution because they may have to run on the same ticket with Roosevelt. Also some of them are running for third, fourth and fifth terms.

Blackjacking

Congress Blamed for Being the First To Use It on Business.

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—The Smith-of-Virginia committee investigating fumblings of the national labor relations board is hot on the trail of so-called "blackjacking" by the government.

The "blackjacking" is supposed to have been directed at business organizations to compel them to abide by the labor bargaining law.

Preston Grover

But if the committee would cast a roving eye about, it would find that congress itself has been employing the same squeeze plays for several years with the general aim of boosting wages and reducing working hours.

The major discovery of the committee was that the RFC had agreed to hold up loans to employers whose labor relations were under examination by the labor board.

Yet, by specific action, congress at various times has ruled that no business house or contractor can get government business unless he agrees in advance to guarantee "prevailing wages and hours."

The Bacon-Davis Act requires "prevailing wages and hours" in all government building contracts above $2,000, while the Walsh-Healy Act does the same for government supply contracts valued above $10,000.

Source Of Opposition

Whether it is a good idea for the government to go into these things is another question. There have been mutterings in congress that the thing has gone too far. One of the arguments against the long pending bill to grant extensive federal aid to schools was that it would permit the government to "blackjack" the states into adopting whatever trend in education the federal government happened to favor at the time. Good old state's righters looked upon it as almost the ultimate in breaking down state independence.

Hope To Raise Wages

"Blackjacking" is probably a strong word to use in such business, but the idea is the same in all instances. The government may have an idea that a certain glove-maker is paying too low wages, so when a contract for gloves is to be let, the low-wage glove-maker is automatically out of the bidding unless he agrees to pay prevailing wages in the making of the government gloves.

The result in some instances has been that workmen standing side by side draw two different scales of pay. The administrators of the law do not attempt to hide their hope that the result will be to force general adoption of the "prevailing wages" by all industries.

An Old Idea

As a matter of fact a somewhat modified system of governmental "blackjacking" of the states has been going on for a half century, all in the cause of better education. And the states love it.

The system has to do with the various "grants in aid" to the states for doing this and that. Annually the government puts up in excess of $30,000,000 for distribution among the states for education in home economics, vocational training and rehabilitation, for farm experimentation.

Most of the money must be matched dollar-for-dollar by the states. While the government claims not to hold too close a rein on how the states will spend the money, it exercises a veto power which is backed up by the prospect that the money may be withdrawn if the states don't follow directions.

That system dates clear back to 1887, when the Hatch Act authorized research in rural home economics and sociology with a fiavoring of agricultural experimenting. The states had to match the money if they got it.

And it was only lately that congress eased up on the most controversial squeeze of all—the ruling that land-grant colleges must require all male students of suitable physique to take military training.

Errors of Last War and Its Peace Terms Cited as Guides in Looking Toward Peace Now.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IN THE preceding articles I have ventured to argue that it is useless to think about peace in the abstract, that the actual peace which follows an actual war is in its fundamental shape determined by the actual consequences of the war itself.

All must agree, it seems to me, that the peace which began in 1919 and ended in 1939 was a bad peace. This is obvious and indisputable. For this peace did not last one generation, whereas a good peace ought, at the very least, to last several generations.

Walter Lippmann

On the theory that a bad peace is the consequence of a badly conducted war and of a badly constructed and badly administered settlement, we have then to discover, if we can, what were the fundamental and decisive errors in the conduct, and in the settlement of the war of 1914-1918. I realize that this is an almost absurdly difficult question to ask ourselves. Yet we have to ask it. There is no escaping it. And upon our ability to find even a partially correct answer much, very much, depends.

And so, asking the indulgence of the reader, pleading only that which I am going to say so categorically, and without submitting the evidence to back it up, is what I think I have learned from trying over 20 years to understand this problem, I hang my clothes on a hickory limb and dive into very deep water.

False Doctrine

1. The military commanders on both sides were, it would seem, under the spell of a false military doctrine; namely, that it is possible for a great power to defeat another great power on the field of battle. The doctrine, developed by military theorists in the Nineteenth century, that a commander must seek out the main force of the enemy and destroy it, did not take a proper account of the fact that the defensive is ever so much stronger than the offensive; and that resistance, especially where whole nations and not professional armies are involved, cannot be broken without overwhelming superiority. The offensive against a reasonably well-armed opponent is not only very likely to fail but to exhaust and demoralize the attackers.

In 1914 the commanders did not realize this cardinal truth. So the Germans invaded Belgium and carried the war, without being able to win it, into northern France; by that offensive operation they made impossibly difficult a negotiated peace of reconciliation. The Russians, technically even less able to conduct an offensive, nevertheless tried to invade Germany, and suffered the disaster of Tannenberg. The French, instead of fighting a defensive war to stop the German invasion through Belgium, attempted an offensive of their own, and in the first few months of the war had suffered half a million casualties. The Germans at Verdun and again in the offensive of Marne 1918, the Allies in several offensives, the Austrians and the Russians in several offensives, sacrificed millions of lives.

None of these offensives was decisive. In the end the Russians surrendered and then the Austrians and then the Germans; they surrendered, not because they were defeated on the field of battle, but because their power to resist had been broken by the exhausting failure of their offensives.

2. The effect of these gigantic offensives was to demolish the three great powers—the Russian, the Austrian and the German—which for a century had maintained a balance of power, and therefore peace, in the great region from the Rhine to the Urals. It is true that there were minor wars in this region, the Crimean War, the three wars of Bismarck in 1864, 1866 and 1870, and the Balkan wars. But they were local and they were short, and they are not to be compared, either in scope or in their consequences, with the great wars of Napoleon or with the great wars of our generation. It is also true, of course, that though there was peace in this region for a century, there was much oppression and injustice. But still there was peace, and the wrongs of Europe then are not to be compared with the wrongs which have been committed there in our generation. Moreover, the wrongs were being remedied, and not, as in our time, aggravated.

In any event, it is a fact that the collapse of the three empires destroyed the political system which had unified Central and Eastern Europe, and the balance of power which had maintained peace. As regards the victors, the effect of the war was to invest them with a responsibility in the chaotic anarchy of Central and Eastern Europe which they could not disclaim, but which they lacked the power to exercise.

Great Britain and France were not strong enough to restore order from the Rhine to the Urals. The fact that they themselves were exhausted by the war had not only reduced their power but had deprived them of the far-sighted wisdom which might have served in lieu of effective power.

3. When the victors made peace they remained under the spell of the military fallacy, namely, that the offensive can conquer. Thus they sought to protect themselves elaborately against the secondary danger of another attempt to invade France and to blockade Britain and deliver a knockout; yet they neglected to preserve and maintain the conditions which had given them victory.

Marion Congressman Hits Proposal To Hold Dies Hearings in Secret

Cong. Smith Labels Such Action "Un-American and Subversive"; Urges Open Sessions.

The Dies committee would be [illegible] of unAmerican and sub- [illegible] activities if it holds its [illegible] in secret, Eighth District Congressman Frederick C. Smith [illegible] charged yesterday, according to news reports from [illegible] gton.

Secret hearings in the committee investigation of unAmerican [illegible] have been proposed by Chairman Martin Dies. Congressman Smith's charges were made as the committee met in executive session to consider Dies' request and other things.

The full text of Congressman Smith's statement follows:

"I rise at this time to express my opposition to the Dies committee holding its hearings in secret.

"From press reports, we are to believe this is necessary lest possibly unpleasant political questions might be raised which would have an ill effect on the coming presidential campaign. To avoid this it is proposed that the hearings be held in secret.

"Granted open sessions of this committee may have political repercussions, desirable or otherwise. What of it? Of what political party or faction are those who advocate this procedure so solicitous that they would resort to this secret procedure? We thought the committee was instructed by congress to investigate Communism and communistic activities in the United States. It is our impression it was to search out their sources and fearlessly expose them wherever they may be found, regardless of whether any political faction might be helped or injured.

"Would not any other course the committee might pursue be dishonorable? Would it not be a clear breach of trust?

"Indeed, does not the raising of this question cause suspicion of preconceived bias in those who raise it?

"To hold these meetings in secret would be wrong in any event. In the first place, the committee is not guided by any fair rules of procedure having the approval or sanction of the public or which could receive juridical approval. This is not our criticism but that of members of the committee itself in the recent discussion in the house relating to the extension of the life of the committee. Though members of the committee at that time expressed their desire to adopt rules of procedure, the public has no assurance that such rules, even if adopted, would always give full protection to the citizens who appear before it. Under these conditions we should be short-sighted and arrogant indeed if we did not recognize the danger of injuring witnesses and suspects. Under such circumstances the power which the committee has to summarily order these people to appear before it for investigation is by no means a light procedure, even if it is done openly before the public. To do this in secret is going entirely too far, and congress should put its foot down on it and in no uncertain way stop any such attempt.

"Every man is entitled not only to his day in court but in open court. Furthermore, no man is guilty until he is so proven by a properly constituted court. It should be fully recognized that the work of this committee is of such a nature as to require each one of its members to be exceedingly fair and wholly unbiassed. The members who are possessed of these qualities have no need whatever for secret meetings. Should there be any who do not have them, they are wholly unfit to serve on the committee.

"To hold these meetings in secret would be unwarranted, entirely unAmerican, subversive of the very purpose for which they are intended. They would be directly in line with the machinations of Communism and totalitarianism, the very thing congress authorized it to expose."

Marriage Meddlers

Lillian Suggests Madge Get Drawings of Gem Markings.

AS I NEARED my father's suite going over the message from Queen Olga to him, I was startled by a prolonged and burlesqued but low-muttered "H-sst" to the left of me. A glance showed me Lillian, her husband and Dicky, all sitting in a hall window seat. Glad of any postponement of my errand, for I sorely dreaded disturbing my father, I abruptly veered and went up to them.

"You look like a cross between an international spy and a king's messenger," Lillian greeted me laughingly. "We've been laying bets as to what's on the well-known mind."

"Mr. Philip Veritzen," I began demurely, "has requested that no one except my father should know what is on my mind just at present."

Harry and Dicky greeted this statement with picturesque profanity, and Lillian shot a knowing look at me.

"And, of course," she gibed, "with your well-known docility, you are needing that request to the last syllable."

"I was going to look for you three as soon as I had seen Father," I told her. "It's a bit of luck finding you here."

"It won't be for you," Dicky threatened, "unless you show more celerity in spooning the lentils. Come on! Shake a wrist! Dish the dope!"

Both he and Harry had risen, as I came up to them, and Dicky set me down emphatically next to the place he resumed. And without further delay I told them of Queen Olga's revelation of the secret marks on her emeralds, which she told to Philip Veritzen and me as a means of keeping him from making the magnificent gesture of buying a duplicate of the fabulously valuable necklace which she had lost on the pirate ship.

"Phil must have been flabbergasted when she said that," Lillian commented.

"He was," I said, smiling, "but he thought no time should be lost in acquainting Father with the news of the markings on the stones."

"I'll bet he also thought he should be the one to do the acquainting," Harry said.

"Right again." I told him, "but when I reminded him of Father's illness, Olga immediately proposed that I tell him on my next regular call on him. I don't think Phil liked it, but he agreed."

"I'll bet he did," Dicky said with a sardonic grin. "Will that old lad jump through hoops and lie down and play dead for the rest of his natural life! Where is he now?"

"In Olga's suite, waiting to see if Father wants to see him or Olga."

"It won't hurt him to cool his heels for a while," Dicky said.

"You forget," Harry Underwood drawled, "that he's probably overjoyed at the chance to linger. It isn't every day that one can make love to a 'queen'."

He spoke the last word in so faithful an imitation of Katie that we all laughed, but his wife spoke with decision.

"But we really ought not to delay this any longer. The Chief wants to know every little thing about those emeralds without delay. And he won't want to wait to see those markings when he does hear the news. Don't you think, Madge, it would be a good idea for you to go back now, making some excuse that you can't see your father for a few more minutes, and ask Olga to put her markings down on a piece of paper right away, and add the name of her jeweler, and any other important data she has concerning that necklace? Then, when you tell your father about it, he either can send for her, or you can skip back and get. Do you agree?"

"I certainly do," I said, rising.

"And while you're gone," Lillian said, also rising, "I'll put a word in Miss Whitlock's ear to the effect that you're coming over with important news. Then she'll have him all ready for the interview."

Program Given By Girl Reserves at Central Jr. High

ABOUT 50 parents and 150 girls were present for the Central Junior High school Girl Reserve recognition service last night at the school. It was one of a series of Girl Reserve week activities in the city.

Following a musical prelude the girls marched into the auditorium singing and arranged themselves in a circle at the foot of the stage. On the stage were the cabinet members, Dorothy Beach, president, Elizabeth Zuspan vice president, Phyllis Lewis chaplain, Frieda Fields, Barbara Jump, Donna Hunter, Mary Johnson, Marjory Volk and Doris Dillinger. Candles in candelabra lighted the stage.

After Scripture and prayer by the chaplain a prayer hymn was sung and Alice Malo and Frances Fisher sang a duet. Brief talks were given by the president, vice president, and one of the sponsors, Miss Wilda Walker.

As the Girl Reserve code was repeated the girls in the large circle lighted candles from candles held by the cabinet members. At the close the group repeated the Girl Reserve pledge and marched from the auditorium. Betty Lee was pianist for the service.

A reception in the main hall was in charge of Doris Dillinger, social chairman, assisted by Miss Jean Knapp, an advisor. Presiding at the tea table decorated with candles and flowers were two council members, Mrs J. H. Harmon and Mrs. J. E. Scandling. The tea was prepared by the home economics classes. Miss Margaret Gray, the third advisor, assisted Miss Walker in arranging for the ceremony in the auditorium.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation that may bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal regularly, drink plenty of water and see if you don't forget all about constipation. All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Detailed Census Quiz Prepared for Farmers

Sample Copies Available at County Agent's Office To Help Rural Residents Get Answers Ready.

Farmers of Marion and nearby counties will be the participants in the biggest rural quiz bee in history this spring when the federal census enumerators begin to probe deep on the agricultural situation.

And if the farmers want to save themselves and the census man a lot of time and trouble, they should take a little checking up in advance to find out just what they are going to find on their farms.

It isn't enough to know that you have five cows or 20 pigs and 30 acres of hybrid corn. The census man wants to know such things as how much you spent for feed in 1939, how much for gasoline, kerosene and oil, what crops and how much failed, how much and what was double harvested, how many acres are irrigated and how much mohair or goat hair you clipped in 1939. The government would also like to find out how many acres of spinach you harvested and how much you got for it.

These are just a few of the things, but they are typical of the 132 separate questions which must be answered by farmers. (Farmers also must answer the regular population census questions, usually about 25 or 30.)

Copies of Questions

In order to help the farmers out, the census bureau has forwarded to most county farm agents sample copies of the agricultural census form.

Marion County Agent Homer S. Porteus now has 100 or 150 samples on hand and has already received several requests for copies.

The idea is that the farmer can check over the form at his leisure and then when the census man comes around can snap back the answers like an Information Please expert.

Mr. Porteus said that if his supply runs low he can probably get more, so any one interested in obtaining a copy may call at his office for one.

The farm census is scheduled to start simultaneously with the population census about April 1.

In announcing plans for the farm survey, Lauren A. Glosser of Upper Sandusky, assistant to Mrs. Harriet B. Stuart of Bucyrus, Eighth congressional district census supervisor, called attention to several aspects of the work.

Need for Information

"Agriculture as an industry has been in bad health for a number of years," he said. "Just as a prudent person goes to his doctor for a complete checkup, the farmers will in the census of 1940 get the most complete study of their symptoms that has ever been made."

The results will provide the farmers, the government and students of farm problems with a guide to the future, he declared.

He pointed to the dependence of the nation's prosperity on the farmer's prosperity, then outlined several factors which have directly affected the farmer's welfare:

1. Dislocation of world markets due to wars and efforts of foreign nations to make themselves self-sufficient.

2. Mechanization of farms, which has increased production while decreasing the number of consumers.

3. Mechanization of industry, which has reduced physical labor and the demand for staple food.

4. Lighter women's clothing.

5. Reduction of physical labor.

6. Almost 50 per cent drop in horses and mules has made it necessary to find a new feed market.

7. Drop in the birth rate means fewer people to eat.

Mr. Glosser urged all farmers of the district to cooperate fully in the survey, if only for their own good. The census will show the farmer what crops are overproduced, will reveal possible new markets for crops in industry and otherwise guide his operations.

Farms Defined

Incidentally, the farm census blank contains a definition of a farm for the census enumerators:

"A farm for census purposes is all the land on which some agricultural operations are performed by one person, either by his own labor alone or with the assistance of members of his household, or hired employes. The land operated by a partnership is likewise considered a farm . . . etc., etc."

The enumerator also must count dry-lot or barn dairies, fur farms, nurseries, greenhouses, hatcheries, mushroom cellars, apiaries, cranberry bogs and the like as "farms." However, a "frog farm" is not a farm. Neither is an oyster farm or a fish farm.

A tract of land must be over three acres or must have produced 1939 products worth over $250 to be called a farm.

Some of Questions

A partial list of questions to be asked farmers follows:

Name, address, age, color or race, location of farm, name of owner; is farm a corporation; what does the landlord furnish; what rent paid; do you operate as a hired manager; how many acres of farm do you own, how many do you rent.

Total acres in farm, acres harvested in 1939, acres not harvested because of failure or destruction, idle acres, pasture acres, woodland acres, all other acres.

Total value of land and buildings, including rented property; value of lands and buildings owned by you; value of all buildings separately; value of implements, equipment, machinery of all kinds.

Any mortgage on April 1, 1940; amount outstanding; interest rate.

Amount of real estate taxes in 1939; personal taxes.

Do you own any other farm land; how much do you rent out.

How many days did you work for pay or income off the farm you operate; days spent at farm work not connected with your farm; days spent on non-farm jobs.

Irrigated acres harvested; irrigated acres pastured; name of irrigation water supply.

Cooperative Activities

Did you deal with a cooperative buying, selling or service organization in 1939.

List of workers and wages paid.

Amount spent for feed, implements and machinery, gasoline, kerosene and oil, building materials, commercial fertilizer, liming materials.

Number of autos, trucks and tractors on farm, year of latest model of each.

Power line or home electric plant; telephone, type of road.

Acres plowed under for soil improvement purposes only; interplanted crops and acreages of each.

Amount of horses, mules, cattle and calves, cows milked, milk produced, butter churned, milk, cream and butter sold and value of all dairy products; sheep and lambs, hogs, sows and gilts, animals butchered, goats and kids, goats milked, mohair and kid hair clipped, livestock purchases and sales.

Information on Poultry

Number of chickens, turkeys, ducks, value of all poultry and poultry produce sold.

Hives of bees, honey produced.

Fur animals, pelts taken.

Full details on crops harvested in 1939; bushels, tons, acreages, purpose of crop.

APPLICATIONS FOR CROP, FEED LOANS AVAILABLE

Applications for emergency crop and feed loans for 1940 are now being received at the office of County Agent Homer Porteus in the post office basement. The loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers whose cash requirements are small and who cannot obtain a loan from any other source.

The loan will be limited to the amount necessary for preparing and cultivating 1940 crops or for purchasing or producing feed for livestock. A first lien is required on the crop financed or on the livestock to be fed.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

New Methods

It is a sign of our times in medicine that we are getting away from the excessive or inevitable use of drugs. Modification of natural agents — food, heat and cold, water, light, exercise, etc.— is being recognized more and more as the most efficient method of treatment.

Nowhere is this better illustrated than in the modern treatment of children. The old habit of dosing children regularly and interminably is disappearing.

Heat is a valuable physical agent which may take the place of drugging in many cases. One method is the use of compresses, poultices or electrical heating pads in close contact to the body for pain, inflammation and swelling. Even more convenient and safe for children is infra-red radiation from luminous or non-luminous sources.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. A. R.: "Does inhaling oil of pine help to cure tuberculosis?"

Answer—No. No inhalant will cure tuberculosis.

W. H. W.: "There has been a controversy in our city and county about when to send a child to school for the first time. I believe there is a mental age as well as a physical age."

Answer — Most child psychologists believe that a child can profitably enter the very elementary grades of school at the age of 5. Certainly there is no reason for keeping a child out of school at that age. I think six should be the upper limit, except in case of sickness, when a child should enter school.

DAM IN OHIO RIVER STUDIED AT HEARING

Asks Back Scioto Up for 10-Mile Lake.

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., Feb. 28 — Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins, Ironton Republican, believes congress should appropriate funds to construct a high-level flood control project here Portsmouth if army engineers recommended that location.

Jenkins announced that opinion yesterday following an army engineers' hearing on the Ohio river flood prevention and hydro-electric plant proposals.

The engineers suggested that high-level dams at either Greenup, Ky., or below Portsmouth at the mouth of the Scioto river would improve navigation.

Jenkins estimated that the Portsmouth dam would cost $11,750,000 and that land rights would entail $2,235,000 more expense. The dam would back up the Scioto river to form a lake 10 miles long and 1½ miles wide and raise the Ohio pool here from 12 to 44 feet.

Opposing the Portsmouth site were the Wheeling Steel Corp., Norfolk & Western Railway, the Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce, Scioto county commissioners, Scioto Valley Protective association, and two Portsmouth industrial concerns. They contended the dam would inundate 9,000 acres of corn land and force costly changes in water and sewage systems.

Jenkins said he opposed government ownership of utilities and would fight suggestions to equip the proposed new dams and the Gallipolis dam with generating units.

Dr. W. S. Rosentheim, managing director of the Huntington, W. Va., Chamber of Commerce, also expressed opposition to the hydro-electric projects, one of which was suggested for Letart, W. Va.

Major L. A. Pick, army engineer who presided at the hearing, said the arguments would be studied by Washington officials before a decision was reached.

FLOOD WATERS SWEEP WEST

Northern and Central California Areas Hit After Three-Day Rain Storm

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO Feb 28—Vast sections of northern and central California lay under deep flood waters today and hundreds were homeless in the wake of a three-day rainstorm while the weather bureau said would continue neither 36 hours

Swollen rivers poured over thousands of acres of rich farm lands and locked into city streets slides blocked major rail and highway arteries and high winds whipped heavy seas against shorelines

Officials of the state legislature considered calling a special session for the purpose of taking such action as may be necessary under the unusual conditions caused by devastating floods

Families Evacuated

National guard men were ordered by Governor Culbert L Olson yesterday to help evacuate 70 families from homes in Yolo county where the Sacramento river was over its banks

State department of agriculture officials said California's rich agricultural industry suffered extensive damage

The cities of Redding in northern California Napa in the north San Francisco bay regions and Santa Cruz on the central coast saw flood waters covering extensive areas

The only apparent death blamed on the flood was reported at Redding where Irene Clemens was missing after an auto in which she was riding overturned into a swollen creek five miles north of town

LABOR BOARD RULES IN MANSFIELD CASE

Holds Examiner Erred but Sustains His Finding

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND Feb 28— Effort of the administrator of the Wagner act to end the labor feud in an Ohio area was forced today reverse the board's rights to have the respect and confidence of employers with whom their work brings them in contact

The statement was part of an order from a bargaining election at the Ideal Electric & Mfg Co at Mansfield O for which the C I O - United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers petitioned in 1938 The union also complained the company engaged in unfair labor practices

The board found that James Miller its former regional director erred in agreeing that if the concern posted a notice it would not interfere with the right of employes to organize and the board would not enter an order remedial of the unfair labor practices

Miller's agreement does not stop the board from the entry of such an order the findings added

We believe nevertheless that the policies of the act will be best effectuated herein by giving effect to such an agreement the board stated We shall enter an order that the complaint be dismissed

The company normally employs more than 150 workers The board directed that current employes and those laid off temporarily are eligible to vote in the election to be held within 30 days

GRAND JURY ATTACKS HOSPITAL OPERATION

Gross Neglect of Duty Charged at Gallipolis

By The Associated Press

GALLIPOLIS O Feb 28— Gross neglect of duty in administration of the state hospital for epileptics here was charged by a Gallia county grand jury which indicted a former institution official for embezzlement

Byron Bodimer former assistant finance officer pleaded innocent to embezzling $7 500 in institution funds and was released on $2 000 bond

The jury accused the hospital superintendent of failing to supervise funds properly although the report did not mention by name Dr George C Kineon superintendent for nearly 30 years Dr Kineon was unavailable for comment Attaches said he was out of town

Placing the blame on persons responsible for the administration of the hospital the jury reported that the superintendent failed to investigate misappropriation of funds of the state and patients and inform the state welfare department of the shortage

The jury also charged that a person neither employe nor patient had been allowed permanent residence at the hospital in violation of rules and that financial records of an institution store operated by patients were incomplete

Welfare Director Charles Sherwood said in Columbus that the person charged with living at the hospital illegally was Dr Mary Austin whom he described as a physician and psychiatrist at the institution for about 40 years before her retirement a few years ago

He said she paid for her board and room and that he had approved her continued residence at the hospital because she has no other home and sometimes is called upon as a consultant

Welles Picks Good Place To Start His Peace Tour

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

President Roosevelt's peace-sleuth under Secretary of State Sumner Welles couldn't have been assigned to a better spot to start his investigation of prospects than in the eternal city with Signor Mussolini and this may prove to be a bit of rare good fortune

There can be few men who have acquired so much information about the belligerents and their innermost aims their asking prices and their selling prices as is stowed away in the shrewd and far seeing brain of the Fascist chieftain

As a much sought after non belligerent (he himself uses this term rather than neutral to show that he has preferences and cards to play) he has had exceptional chances to make an intimate study of the position from all angles If he has chosen to talk freely with his visitor I dare likely will have disclosed the results of some keen mind-reading which should be invaluable to Welles in dealing with the warring leaders

Tough Job At Best

The under secretary's mission—to arrive at the exact unvarnished truth—is a most difficult one at best He will be consulting statesmen with whom he isn't well acquainted personally

For this reason his work must of necessity be to a large degree psychological lest he place a wrong value on the spoken word Perhaps Welles biggest test will come on his next stop when he visits Herr Hitler

Mussolini has his axis partner pretty well figured out by this time including the flights of fancy which at one time or another have ruled the practical Fascist leader no end It does also his head an opportunity to get a good slant on the astute Birmingham businessman who is Premier Chamberlain of Britain and the bull of provence Premier Daladier who now rules France under dictatorial powers granted him by his parliament

To See Mussolini Again

So if Mussolini has felt well disposed toward Mr Roosevelt's search for peace Welles has gone forward with good equipment for the remaining stages of his journey And he has arranged to see il duce again at the completion of the European visit

ELECTION

day to Republican victory in 1940

McGregor Ohio house of representatives floor leader vowed to continue in my determined effort to restore the nation in orderly manner to a pay-as you-go basis through economy and encouragement of business In her only campaign speech Mrs Bolton promised to support American common sense economy

Ashbrook Blames Bricker

Ashbrook stated this hurried up election put Democrats at a disadvantage He charged Gov Bricker called it primarily to benefit McGregor Another Democrat accused Bricker of being influenced to make the call by Mrs Bolton's campaign contributions

McGregor's 4 500-vote margin over Ashbrook was 500 less than that given the late Representative Ashbrook when he defeated Walter Woodward of Bellville in 1938 Mrs Bolton's majority was 8 000 less than her husband polled

The total vote cut down by voter apathy and bad weather was only slightly more than half of the 1938 total in the 17th district and a third in the 22nd The special elections cost an estimated $170 000

George Neffner veteran election expert in the secretary of state's office viewed the results as a complete indorsement of the Bricker administration which had been criticized severely by Ashbrook campaigners

Bricker who campaigned for McGregor stated that the elections outcome reflects Ohio's resentment at the treatment it has received at the hands of the New Deal

McGregor will be the first Republican to serve the 17th since the late William Morgan of Newark In winning re election the last time in 1938 Morgan defeated Charles West formerly of Cranville by 15 000 votes West later represented the district

McGregor in the general contracting business at West Lafayette for 20 years entered politics as a member of the local school board He was elected in 1938 to his third consecutive term in the legislature winning in what had been a Democratic district

In yesterday's congressional election however McGregor lost his own county Coshocton to Ashbrook while winning in Ashland Delaware Knox Licking and Richland counties Mrs Bolton's wins won her three county district formed by Geauga Lake and part of Cuyahoga

Hamilton Hails Victory

The two Republican victories in Ohio were hailed by Republican Chairman John Hamilton today as pointing onward a Democratic defeat in the November election

The Republicans take the first blood of 1940 Hamilton said through national headquarters in Washington This confirms the trend we have contended has been running since 1938

The third term question continued to dominate political developments in Democratic ranks

Frank McHale campaign manager for Paul V McNutt said last night at Indianapolis that McNutt's friends were working with President Roosevelt's supporters in filing delegate slates for the national convention

He said that Roosevelt and McNutt backers had joined forces in New Hampshire Wisconsin Oregon and Nebraska and a similar line up would be effected in Florida

If President Roosevelt isn't the candidate you can rest assured that Paul McNutt will be McHale said

In a speech last night insisting on a third term for Mr Roosevelt Mayor Edward J Kelly of Chicago said that the President told him he was tired and felt like retiring Kelly said that he replied you must finish the great work you started

Supporters of Vice President Garner filed petition last night indicating they would have a candidate in seven congressional districts in New York City for delegate and alternates to the Democratic convention

Republican contenders blasted away at the New Deal in their speeches Thomas F Dewey New York district attorney spoke at Albany N Y Senator Taft Republican of Ohio at Baltimore and Frank E Gannett Rochester N Y publisher at Tulsa Okla

Allies Considering Direct Blow at Reds

By The Associated Press

LONDON Feb 28—An expeditionary force supported by men-of-war and planes and designed to strike at Soviet Russian forces in Finland has been the subject of serious discussion in military and naval circles for the past month it was learned authoritatively today

Talk of such an expedition has been inspired by protests against half-measures of aid for Finland expressed by such divergent personalities as former War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha and Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson member of parliament

As envisaged the expedition would

1—Give the Finns relief in the form of trained manpower

2—Strike at Russia which now is classed with Germany in most British public speeches as an enemy nation—this despite the fact that the Soviet Union and Great Britain technically are still at peace with each other

3—Stall Russian economic assistance to blockaded Germany The reasoning here is that Russia would have few supplies to spare once she were marched against a well armed and numerically strong foe

With the western front still static the allies are said to be turning to a broader concept of strategy Finland and the middle east are looked upon by the highest military and naval authorities as potential fields for flanking attacks on Russia and Germany

The [illegible] plan was [illegible] the Rumanian [illegible] and [illegible] a royal decree for [illegible] mobilization [illegible] company military [illegible] and [illegible] Undersecretaries in part

Accepting the German plan it was said would oblige Rumania to abandon her plan for total mobilization and bring at least 1 000 000 of her 1 400 000 men under arms back to their posts in fields and factories

The German plan also was said to include a promise to prevail upon Hungary Bulgaria and Soviet Russia to abandon their territorial claims on Rumania and sign non aggression pacts with her

Germany was reported ready to sponsor a new railway agreement between Rumania and Hungary to make it easier to transport vital supplies to the reich

Authoritative quarters said it was extremely doubtful whether Rumania could accept the plan because the price—a virtual Nazi monopoly of her exports—was considered far too high

Lee Savold To Face Real Test With "Bicycle" Bob Pastor Friday Night

By DILTON GRAHAM
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK—Pinkie George carries pictures of two boxers around in his inside coat pocket Pinkie is a bright eyed mite of a man who manages fighters He pulls the photographs out and shows them to you

He looks like Dempsey don't he" Pinkie asks

Course, Dempsey was a brunette and my boy is a blond he explains but their features are alike See those high cheek bones And the nose and forehead and chin" Savold looks like Jack don't he huh"

PASTOR

Yeah you agree he does but can he punch like Dempsey

Well Pinkie says with a shrug and a smile Dempsey was some socker Then his eyes brighten And my boy is a socker too He can hit with either hand Short powerful punches He knocked out 10 of his last 13 opponents

Pinkie is pretty high on his heavyweight the young Norwegian Lee Savold from out St Paul way But Pinkie is a bit jittery now For Savold faces his biggest test in a few days He tackles the veteran Bob Pastor in Madison Square Garden Friday night

If he can get past Pastor we won't be afraid of anyone he says But that Pastor is a cute fellow he's been around and knows all the tricks

The best Pinkie tell it the bond of friendship between him and Savold is even greater than that between Joe Gould and Jim Braddock probably an all-time high in the boxing racket

This Savold is a fine upright kid and I think the world of him He's married and has a pair of the swellest little kids you ever saw And a sweet wife Hell I'd rather quit boxing than match him against someone I didn't think he had a 50-50 chance with

A year ago when Pinkie took charge of Savold the boy weighed 212 He had been bartender in St Paul and had done plenty of eating and beer drinking He'd been fighting on and off for seven years without much success He'd become discouraged and disgusted But I told him he could amount to something So he began training and now he's down to 182 Gets around fast and hits harder he says

Lee now 25 hadn't had much tutoring before Pinkie got him

He may be the next champion Certainly if he gets as many cracks at Louis as future Godoy did Savold should knock Joe out

LEE SAVOLD
Looks Like Dempsey huh"

Girl Reserve Speakers and Club History Feature Rotary Program

Edison School Teacher and Pupil Give Talks; 18-Year Record of Marion Rotary Reviewed.

Members of the Marion Rotary club Tuesday heard a program featuring the history of their own organization and the aims and activities of the Girl Reserves. Both phases of the program, which followed the club's weekly luncheon at Hotel Harding, were in observance of special occasions scheduled by the two groups—Girl Reserve week and the thirty-fifth anniversary week of Rotary.

Miss Mary Jo Stafford, teacher at Thomas A. Edison Junior High school and sponsor of the Edison Girl Reserves, and Miss Donna Rech, president of the Senior Girl Reserves at the school, gave talks explaining the basic principles of the organization and the program it follows in making those principles effective.

The visit of Miss Stafford and Miss Rech as guests of the Rotary club was part of a week of special activities in which all the Harding and Junior High school girls of Marion enrolled as Reserves are participating along with their sponsors. Similar observance is taking place throughout Ohio and western pennsylvania.

Review of Club History

The history of the Marion Rotary club, starting with its installation meeting and carrying through to the present, was given by the club's secretary, Earl N. Hale. The material was obtained in the main from minutes of the 936 meetings holding during the 18 years of the club's existence. Mr. Hale's review served to commemorate not only the eighteenth anniversary of the Marion club but also the thirty-fifth anniversary of Rotary International, which was fomally observed throughout the world last week.

His history covered various developments in the Marion club's community service, welfare and social program during the 18 years, with the work done in behalf of crippled children occupying a prominent place in the record.

Some History Details

Among the many details of the history as related by Secretary Hale are these:

In the list of secretaries are Horace Ballinger, Jesse H. Mason, Clarence O. Brown, Levi Stang, Don A. Howard, Walter Brown, Wendell Wiant and Earl N. Hale.

Only two persons have been voted honorary memberships, Warren G. Harding on April 11, 1922 and Fred E. Guthery on Feb. 14, 1933.

Charter members were Harry R. Adams, Arthur J. Berry, Horace Ballinger, Frank D. Sentz, Josiah Bindley, Otto Briggs, Dr. James E. Cramer, James G. Cooper, Dr. John Dodd, Fred E. Guthery, W. H. Holverstott, Morris Huhn, Charles B. King, Ray R. King, Frank B. Morrison, J. M. Primm, Elmer J. Schoenlaub, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, John J. Stafford, Verle C. Smith, J. Malcolm Strellitz, W. L. Sawyer, Sir Harry Lauder, famed Scotch comedian, Postmaster General Harry S. New, Lloyd C. FOREIGN PLANES FLY OVER NETHERLANDS

By The Associated Press

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 28—Foreign planes flying high over the Netherlands, on the direct air route between Germany and Britain, drew heavy anti-aircraft gunfire early today without apparent results.

The chief of the Amsterdam air defense district, Lieut-Gen. Van Ermel Scherer, said ten planes were fired on, but were so high that the possibility of hits was small.

Almost daily affairs since war started, aerial violations of Netherlands neutrality have resulted in at least eleven protests in Berlin and four in London.

Germans assert that the Netherlands is a regular gateway for British planes reaching Germany.

LEGION COMMANDER MAY COME TO MARION

Move Started To Book Him for Address Here.

Arrangements to bring Homer L. Chaillaux of Los Angeles, Calif., national Americanism officer of the American Legion, to Marion for an address, were started last night at a meeting of Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162 at the Legion Dugout.

Commander M. E. Baldwin appointed W. E. Orcutt head of a committee to arrange with national Legion headquarters for a speaking date.

Action to bring Mr. Chaillaux here followed his appearance last week in Mansfield. A group of Marion residents heard the address and have asked that the Marion post sponsor a similar meeting here.

Since Mr. Chaillaux's schedule of speaking engagements is filled weeks in advance it probably will be a matter of several months before a date can be set. Marion civic, patriotic and fraternal organizations will be invited to join in sponsoring the engagement.

Talks on Americanism were given by the post's Americanism officers, Charles Howard and F. L. Hill. Reports of progress of the Legion essay contest were made by Dr. F. L. Thomas, E. M. Breithaupt and D. J. MacDonald of the essay committee. Lunch was served.

New Vocational Guidance Program Gets Under Way at Harding High

County Nurse Is First Speaker in Series Scheduled To Help Pupils Map Careers.

An extensive vocational guidance program for Harding High school pupils got under way yesterday with the first of a series of conferences which will be arranged for the benefit of the boys and girls.

Yesterday morning Miss Mary Brenemen, Marion county health department nurse, talked with a group of about 60 girls interested in the profession of nursing. In her talk she discussed the education and training for nursing and the various fields of work into which trained nurses may go.

Afterwards she remained at the building most of the morning to confer with individual girls and talk over their personal questions regarding nursing.

Pupils Questioned

The vocational guidance program, a project on which Principal K. H. Marshall has worked for some time, was launched several weeks ago with the distributing of questionnaires to all the approximately 1,000 sophomores, juniors and seniors.

The questionnaires sought to learn the things the boys and girls like to do, things about school which they do not like, the kind of work by which they hope to make a livelihood.

With the exception of about 100 students who were undecided as to their future course, all of the questionnaires were returned to the faculty members who have joined Mr. Marshall in the program.

A wide field of interests was shown in the responses, including law, nursing, aviation, beauty culture, machinist's trade, domestic work, civil service, medicine, dentistry, journalism, engineering, music, art, agriculture, salesmanship, teaching and commercial work.

Consultations Planned

From now until every boy and girl who expressed a preference has been contacted, the school officials will invite Marion business men and women, professional men and women, skilled craftsmen, specialists in many fields, to the school to talk with groups and individual students.

The guidance program was not restricted to seniors, since the principal and faculty feel that many times boys and girls of sophomore and junior years know definitely what they want to make of their future and can be given invaluable assistance in planning their education and its preparation.

MAN RUNS AMUCK WITH GUN, KILLS 2

Michigan Veteran Surrenders After Shooting Fray.

By The Associated Press

IRON RIVER, Mich., Feb. 28—Running amuck with a .22 calibre revolver, a 45-year-old ex-soldier slew two neighbors and critically wounded a third man before surrendering to police who trapped him after a gun battle in tiny Bates township near here late yesterday.

The man, identified by Sheriff Emory King as Marion Marsch, was held in the Crystal Falls jail today.

The slain men were Peter Baker, 65, and Hans Matson, 63, who lived near Marsch.

Sheriff King said Marsch also wounded Anton Kunchynski, 45, who was working at a nearby WPA tool shed and then fired three shots into an approaching WPA truck, narrowly missing the driver.

After exchanging shots with officers who came on the scene, Marsch fled to his cabin nearby and surrendered when police walked to the door with drawn weapons. Officers said Marsch complained people had been talking about him.

TRUCK STRIKE AVERTED

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Feb. 28 — A threatened strike of 300 truck drivers, dockmen and checkers was averted today when the General Truck Drivers Union, local 92, signed a two-year contract with the Canton Motor Carriers' association, representing about 35 haulers.

SERVICES RESUMED

The mid-week Bible studies at Central Christian church which were discontinued during the union evangelistic services will be resumed tonight at the 7:30 o'clock services. The study will be Lesson 101 in the handbook, "Jesus Feeds Five Thousand." At 8:30 o'clock there will be a meeting of the church elders and a choir rehearsal.

CITY RENOMINATES MAYOR

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE, Feb. 28 — Mayor Arthur B. Langlie was renominated for a second term by a landslide vote in yesterday's primary. His vote was 44,278. Fred Wilson, former county employe, was runner-up with 4,822, and will run against Langlie at the March 12 general election.

TWO BOYS, 16, FACE LIFE IN PRISON CELLS

By The Associated Press

DEDHAM, Mass., Feb. 28—Two 16-year-old boys, whose crimes netted them 45 cents, awoke behind the grim walls of Massachusetts' state prison today, their home for the rest of their days.

The boys—Arthur S. Cray Jr., and Irwin R. Nelson Jr., both of Quincy—were under indictment for first degree murder in the holdup slaying of Emil Carlson, 45, a night watchman, but accepted District Attorney Edmund R. Dewing's offer permitting them to plead guilty to a second degree charge.

COMPLETES SENTENCE

By The Associated Press

FREMONT, O., Feb. 28—Socially prominent Mrs. Grace Sleasman, 58, of nearby Clyde, has been released from Sandusky county jail after serving a 20-day sentence for contempt of court. She was cited for talking to jurors during the trial last fall of Mrs. Velma Baker Fink, acquitted of murder in the death of an infant son.

Feeder Cattle
We have received for sale this week a very nice selection of low priced feeding cattle
These cattle are thin as result of the terrible cold Winter in the West this year and the weights are the best These cattle are not weighing within 50 to 100 pounds of what they did a month ago
We also look for a sharp advance in prices in the next few weeks as it will be grass time and also there is a scarcity of light feeding cattle in the West due to last years drouth
We advise you to come in and buy these cattle at the prices we can sell them for At the price of this feed now you can carry these cattle until grass time pret ty cheap instead of waiting until grass time and pay a dollar a hundred more for your cattle Responsible parties can be financed

Boston Wool

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Feb. 28—Business was very quiet today on the Boston wool market. Quotations on domestic wools, however, were steady, but largely nominal, because of the absence of trading. Graded French combing length fine territory wool was quoted at 90 to 95 cents, scoured basis. Staple combing length half-blood territory wool was quoted at 85 to 85 cents, scoured basis. Dealers were adhering to these asking prices, despite the lack of bids.

STOCKS PUSH AHEAD TODAY

But Comparatively Few Issues Attract Attention on Market.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—Traders, specializing mainly in aircrafts, steels, and motors, pushed stock market averages a little forward today.

The comparatively few issues which attracted attention were up major fractions toward the fourth hour, but the rate of transactions slowed.

On the advancing side were Pan American Airways, Martin, United Aircraft, Douglas, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Allied Chemical, Eastman, DuPont, and Anaconda.

Repeating recent performances, Loft and Brooklyn & Queens Transit preferred set new highs for the year.

Bonds showed small gains, as did commodities. London and Paris prices strengthened, although Amsterdam was irregular.

Ahead in the curb were Sherwin Williams, Aluminum Ltd., Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Thew Shovel.

The sixth consecutive weekly backtrack in electric power production was viewed as indicating a further recession in the current general rate of industry.

WHEAT GAINS NEAR 2 CENTS A BUSHEL

CHICAGO, Feb. 28—Gains of almost two cents a bushel were chalked up in the wheat pit at times today as the market responded to heavy sales of Canadian grain abroad and reports of crop damage in Europe.

Although United States wheat prices were above a world export basis, grain men said the domestic market naturally was susceptible to developments regarding disposal of the large surplus in Canada.

Liquidation of loan wheat and profit taking caused frequent reactions here.

Wheat closed 1⅜-1⅞ cents higher than yesterday, May $1.03⅜-⅝, July $1.01⅜-½; corn 1½-1¾ up, May 56⅞-57, July 57¼-⅜; oats ⅝-¾ higher.
